Books in Bloom Flyer

- ① BOOKS IN BLOOM is across the top of a bright flyer for a library card event. Under the title, a drawing shows a girl holding a card and choosing a book. A short sentence beside the drawing reads, “A library card opens the door to stories, facts, and fun.” The flyer uses large letters for the title and smaller letters for the sentence.
- ② Near the center, a pale yellow box holds three short labels. WHEN: Saturday, May 10, 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. WHERE: Oak Street Library, 24 Pine Road. BRING: an adult and proof of your address. The three labels are printed in dark blue letters with clear, thick strokes. A small book picture rests in one corner of the box too.
- ③ At the bottom, three short action lines appear beside check boxes: “Ask an adult to come with you.” “Find proof of your address.” “Visit the library during the event.” A green star points to a small box that says, “Cards are free!” The flyer also gives the library phone number in tiny print along the bottom edge.

PART 1 • READ AND MARK

PART 2 • ANSWERS

#	QUESTION	ANSWER
1	What is the flyer trying to get readers to do? Use two details from the flyer to support your answer.	It is trying to get readers to attend the library card event. It gives a date and place, and it tells readers to bring an adult and proof of address.
2	How do the labels WHEN, WHERE, and BRING help a reader use the flyer?	They sort the details into time, place, and needed items, so readers can find each kind of detail quickly.
3	Why might the title use large letters while the phone number uses tiny print?	Large letters make the event title stand out first. The phone number is extra information that readers may need later.
4	How do the check boxes and short action lines affect the way a reader understands what to do?	They make the tasks look like a simple list of steps to complete before and during the event.
