City Water Lab Internship Guide

- ① The City Water Lab offers paid summer internships to students who will be at least 16 by June 1. Interns test water samples, record results, and help prepare public education displays. To apply, submit the online form by April 12 at 5:00 p.m. The lab uses the form to confirm that applicants meet the age requirement and can attend the required training on June 10. Late or incomplete forms are not reviewed.
- ② On the form, use your legal name and an email address you check regularly. List a school or community reference who is not related to you, and include that person's phone number. In the availability section, mark every weekday hour you can work between June 17 and August 9. Do not list hours you hope to have free. The supervisor compares this section with the lab's schedule before selecting interview candidates.
- ③ Before submitting, attach a one-page résumé that names relevant classes, volunteer work, or jobs. Answer the short question, "Why do you want to work at the Water Lab?" in 75 to 100 words. Give one specific example of a skill you would use, such as careful measurement or clear communication. The application asks for accurate contact information so staff can reach applicants about interviews, training, or missing materials. Keep a copy of your submitted form.
